Target group

Sick children up to 12 years old, whose parents go out to work.

Service

Trained SRC childminders come and take care of the sick child while the parents are away at work. All it takes is a telephone call and within four hours the administrators will send an SRC child-minder. A doctor's certificate is required from the fifth day. Beneficiaries can claim a maximum of 90 hours of child-minding per year. Any request for the service is binding. The service is available to families living in Basel-Stadt, Riehen, and Bettingen.

Childminders

SRC childminders have extensive experience of looking after children and continuously undergo training. Their duties include:

- monitoring the child's state of health
- taking measures to help the child recover, strictly following the doctor's orders
- preparing meals
- keeping the child occupied

Funding

The service is funded jointly by the GGG (non-profit welfare organization) and the Swiss Red Cross cantonal association in Basel-Stadt. The parents pay a contribution in accordance with the enclosed sheet based on their household income.
